COURSE DESCRIPTION AND OBJECTIVES
As human beings are intensely social creatures, it stands out when someone behaves in a way that appears inappropriate or that violates social expectation. At its most extreme, a breach of normalcy would be classified as deviant or even abnormal. In this course, we will examine social deviance, paying particular attention to issues of what is considered conformist (as opposed to deviant), who defines what is considered normal and why, and what degree of deviation is necessary for someone or some behavior to be labeled as “socially deviant.” The focus throughout the course will be on developing critical thinking skills when evaluating and critiquing theory, research, and policy related to deviation, in an effort to develop a well-rounded understanding of how we classify and react to social deviance.

REQUIRED TEXT AND EQUIPMENT

STUDENT EVALUATION
Your course grade will be based upon three exams, a final paper, a series of writing assignments, and weekly discussion. Each exam is worth 20 percent, the term paper is worth 15 percent, the writing assignments are cumulatively worth 20 percent, and class participation is worth 5 percent.

EXAMINATIONS
Each exam will be comprised of a combination of multiple choice, fill-in-the-blank, true/false, and short answer questions.

TERM PAPER ASSIGNMENT
As one of the goals of this class is to critically examine definitions of “social deviance” (and by extension “normalcy”), your term paper assignment is to select a particular behavior or population that you find interesting and that is labeled deviant, and explain:
- What is the deviant behavior or population?
- What is considered conformist or normal?
- Who defines what is considered deviant and why?
- Does this definition appear universal or contextual? What evidence supports either claim?
- What degree of deviation is necessary for a particular behavior or population to be labeled “socially deviant?”

Your term paper should be 5-10 pages in length and should reference at least 2 sources other than your textbook. In lieu of a final examination, your final paper must be uploaded to CANVAS by noon on Wednesday, May 3.

When presenting your argument, please try to use your own words, paraphrase major points, or, when quoting directly from a text, acknowledge the material in quotations and reference the source and page number correctly using American Sociological Association (ASA) style (for in-text citations please see http://owl.english.purdue.edu/owl/resource/583/02/ and for reference page formatting please see http://owl.english.purdue.edu/owl/resource/583/03/). If you copy material without citing it, you will get a zero for the assignment and may also get a FF for the course.

WRITING ASSIGNMENTS
There will be ten short writing assignments due throughout the course of the semester. Each response should be at least a paragraph in length and should reference the textbook and class lecture in order to demonstrate a keen understanding of the material. Each assignment must be uploaded to CANVAS by 11:30am on the assignment due date.

LECTURES AND CLASS DISCUSSION
As this is a discussion-based course, class participation is a mandatory component in order to provide students with the most interactive experience possible. As the instructor, my goal is to guide your learning as much as I can. To this end, while my lectures will focus on the assigned readings, I may expand the scope to include other information or narrow the focus to highlight only a few key elements. In this regard, students cannot just attend lectures and ignore the book, or vice versa, and still have exposure to all of the information necessary to complete this course.
COURSE POLICIES
1) Please extend courtesy and respect to your fellow students in any discussion and avoid any overtly hostile or demeaning language when reacting to another student's ideas. Repeated disrespectful and rude behavior may be grounds for dismissal from the class.

2) Late assignments will not be accepted unless: (1) you notify me 48 hours before the assignment is due and (2) provide me with an acceptable reason for why the assignment will be late. I may request written documentation for the excuse if deemed necessary. If you do not follow this procedure then you will receive a zero on the assignment.

3) Plagiarism and cheating will not be tolerated (see below).

4) This syllabus is not a contract. I reserve the right to modify this syllabus at any time throughout the semester and will give you ample notification beforehand via class-wide announcements. It is your responsibility to stay abreast of any changes made.

5) In line with university policy, students with disabilities who are in need of academic accommodations must (1) register with and provide documentation to the Disability Research Center (DRC) and (2) bring a memorandum from the DRC to the instructor indicating the need for accommodation and what type. This should be accomplished within the first two weeks of the semester. Additional information can be accessed at www.usu.edu/drc/

6) In accordance with the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA), academic progress in this course will be kept private from all third parties unless waived by the individual student. This waiver, along with other information, can be found at http://www.usu.edu/registrar/htm/ferpa.

7) If you have a problem, please do not hesitate to contact me. It is easiest to reach me via email, although I do request that you include your first name, your last name, your A number, and the course number in all correspondence. I check my email account daily, so if you need to contact me, you can expect a response within 24 hours, but you should not wait until the last minute before deadlines to write to me with questions.

CHEATING, PLAGIARISM, AND ACADEMIC INTEGRITY
Cheating and plagiarism will not be tolerated. A single case of cheating can be the basis for a failing grade and/or dismal from the University. Plagiarism includes knowingly “representing, by paraphrase or direct quotation, the published or unpublished work of another person as one’s own in any academic exercise or activity without full and clear acknowledgement. It also includes the unacknowledged use of materials prepared by another person or agency engaged in the selling of term papers or other academic materials” (Code of Policies and Procedures for Students, Article V, Section 3A.1). The penalties for plagiarism are severe and may include probation, suspension, expulsion, withholding of transcripts, denial or revocation of degrees, referral to psychological counseling, and other appropriate disciplinary actions. If you have any questions concerning what constitutes cheating or plagiarism, feel free to ask me.
