

Sociology Department Honors

Sociology offers a Departmental Honors option for majors. Students may complete an Honors Program in University Studies with Department Honors or an Honors Program just in Sociology.

Departmental Honors Requirements:

- Honors students must complete 12 credits of courses that are designated as Honors courses. These courses are selected by students and are approved by the Department Honors Coordinator and course instructors. Any upper-division (3000 or higher) course may be taken as Honors.
- Honors students must maintain a cumulative GPA of 3.3 and a GPA of 3.5 in upper-division courses required for their major and selected for Honors credit.
- Honors students are required to enroll in SOC 4800: Senior Seminar in Sociology during the spring semester of their senior year. This course will instruct them in designing, conducting and completing a senior thesis project.

Why Should You Join?

- Enjoy coursework customized to match your interests.
- Learn hands-on how to conduct your own research project.
- Work more closely with faculty.
- Present your work to peers and faculty.
- Help prepare for graduate school
- Enhance your resume/CV.

Additional Benefits:

- Enjoy priority registration.
- Access to the Honors lounge, conference room and computer lab.
- Support for seeking additional scholarship and fellowship opportunities.
- Advising by Honors Program staff.
- Access to scholarships available only to Honors students.

For More Information:

- For more information about Sociology's Departmental Honors Program, contact Professor Christy Glass at christy.glass@usu.edu.
- For general information about the University Honors Program, visit www.usu.edu/honors or contact the program office in 1438 Old Main, 797-3940.